

BEST HEART ON YOUR SLEEVE
Harold Balink

Chef Harold Balink not only pours his heart and soul into the creative cuisine as the chef at Cru, he wears that heart on his sleeve. This gentle giant is not afraid to let his friends and fans into his home, not just his kitchen. His emotional posts on social media include musings during the deaths of loved ones and pets, his wife's battle with cancer, and always some mode of gratitude. After baring it all, he suits up, cooks some of the best food in Fort Myers and embraces his patrons... literally.

BEST PLACE TO MEAT UP
Rosy Tomorrow's Heritage Farm

This meat market is not a thumpin' bar, but a peaceful farm in North Fort Myers, where Rose O'Dell King and her staff lovingly raise a variety of heritage-breed animals. They are grass-fed and hormone free, regardless what day of the month it is. Purchase the tasty beef, pork and chicken at Market Days every Wednesday at the picturesque farm.

BEST PLACE TO BEE
Harold P. Curtis Honey Co.

In all of Southwest Florida, from Marco Island to Port Englewood, there's no better place to be than the Harold P. Curtis Honey Co. in LaBelle.

The company has been selling fine honey since 1954, but something new was added to the side of its building on Bridge Street this spring.

Artist Matthew Willey painted a mural on the south side of the building. The mural includes bees and hopes to evoke concern for the plight of bees, which are endangered and critical to humanity's food supply.

Mr. Willey's work is more than a pretty picture — it's a reminder of why honeybees are important to people.
